NV Threefold Quality System Support

Female-led

ABOUT

Threefold supports companies in setting up and strengthening their quality management system, focusing on the 3 key pillars of quality (management) systems (Manpower, working methods, and resources/means). Threefold provides support for quality (management) systems consisting of separate standards or an integration of standards. This support takes place through coaching (Manpower) with regard to the standards and their aspects (risk management, process management, etc.), and training (Manpower) in the same aspects as coaching, though this can sometimes be somewhat broader, since we bring in external experts where needed to strengthen the quality system, for example for training in Ergonomics or training in written and verbal language skills, customer focus, etc. Threefold supports the development of documentation (working methods) that fully aligns with the standard requirements and the practice of the organization to be certified. In addition, Threefold advises companies on their choice of suitable resources (means) for their quality system. This concerns measuring equipment and other supporting resources.
