ABOUT

ERA91 Consulting is a project management and advisory firm that supports organizations in preparing, structuring, and successfully executing complex projects. The service focuses on creating overview, managing risks, and ensuring that projects are delivered within the agreed objectives, schedule, quality, and financial frameworks. Under the principle "Designed to Deliver," ERA91 combines strategic advice with practical execution. The firm therefore does not limit itself to issuing advice, but also guides clients through the actual implementation and delivery of projects.

1. Project management from start to finish. ERA91 offers integrated project management services for projects in sectors including IT, real estate, development, and construction. Depending on the client's needs, ERA91 can be made responsible for the entire project or for specific parts of it. The services include, among others: defining project objectives and outcomes; establishing and monitoring project scope; drawing up project plans, timelines, and milestones; determining responsibilities and decision-making structures; coordinating internal and external project partners; monitoring budgets, progress, and quality; identifying and managing project risks; reporting to management, the board, or other stakeholders; guiding delivery, handover, and project evaluation. ERA91 acts as the central point of contact between the client, suppliers, contractors, advisors, and other stakeholders. This creates a single, clear line of direction and accountability.

2. Project planning and preparation. Good preparation forms the basis for a successful project. ERA91 therefore supports organizations in translating an idea, need, or investment decision.
